Chief Executive Estimates $330,000,000 Payments During Fiscal 1948

WASHINGTON, Jan. 10—President Truman told congress today that the government must design federal agricultural policies to achieve a better balance of supply with demand and avoid excessive expenditures for farm price support.

In his budget message to the legislators, the President estimated that the government would have to spend about $330,000,000 in the fiscal year 1948 to support agricultural prices "even with continued general prosperity."

Mr. Truman warned that further expenditures for price support would be required "should markets weaken seriously." Agriculture department officials said their agency was ready to put up as much as $1,500,000,000.

Potatoes Costly

An estimated $80,000,000 will be paid out, principally for potatoes, in the fiscal year 1947 under the price support program, which ends Dec. 31, 1948.

This sum represents a decrease of $73,588,000 from the amount available to the department for spending in the current fiscal year ending June 30.

The President's budget message for the fiscal year 1948 called for:

BUDGET SAID 'TIGHT'
Truman Sees Balance For First Time Since Year Of 1930

BY ARTHUR F. HERMANN
INS Staff Correspondent
WASHINGTON, Jan. 10—President Truman today sent to congress a "balanced"—and what he termed a "hardboiled"—budget calling for federal spending of $37,500,000,000 during the 1948 fiscal year.

He asked for huge national defense expenditures of $11,200,000,000 and warned the economy-minded congress that any cuts in this category "would immediately weaken our international position."

The president's recommendations appeared headed for swift conflict with the Republican-dominated legislature whose leaders have urged maximum government spending ranging from $29,000,000,000 to $32,000,000,000.

But Mr. Truman insisted his budget was "tight" and "realistic." In judging governmental spending requests, the president said "in every borderline case, the decision has been to eliminate expenditures rather than to include them. It has been necessary for us to be more hardboiled in making many decisions than I like to be."

New Legislation Needed
Mr. Truman said the budget was "balanced"—for the first time since 1930. But the budget itself showed that legislation is required to wipe out a slight deficit and create a small surplus by transferring $379,000,000 from the federal reserve system and the federal deposit insurance corporation to the treasury and treating the amount as income.

With this transfer, the budget showed spending of $37,500,000,000 and revenues of $37,700,000,000, leaving $200,000,000 to be applied (Continued on Page Two)

LIBERALS BACK TRUMAN PLANS FOR COMMISSION

WASHINGTON, Jan. 10—Eight senators today introduced a bill to create a "temporary labor relations commission" along the lines recommended by President Truman in his state of the union message.

The proposal for an overall specification of labor problems was made by Senators Murray, Mont.; Wagner, N. Y.; Pepper, Fla.; Green, R. I.; Thomas, Utah; Taylor, Idaho; Myers, Pa.; and McGrath, R. L.—all Democrats.

The group conferred earlier this week with CIO President Philip Murray in an effort to work out labor legislation to meet the GOP program which the eight senators regard as too "restrictive."

Labor Government Put Into Ticklish Spot With Use Of Military Units

LONDON, Jan. 10—The British government mobilized its armed forces today to crack down on a rapidly spreading transport strike which already has deprived large areas of the country of essential food and other supplies.

High-ranking officials of the ministries of transport, labor and food met throughout the afternoon to determine the number of troops that will be required to restore some semblance of normal distribution.

Spread of the walkouts and the apparent necessity of military intervention placed Britain's labor government in an extremely difficult position.

Britain's labor unions, which have the government's full support, always have rebelled against any attempt at armed opposition to what they consider legitimate demands.

The authoritative British Press association said it was likely that soldiers would be moved into "food battle" stations before the day is over.

Food minister John Strachey and other cabinet officers involved cancelled all week-end appointments in the country and planned to remain at their desks in London.

A spokesman for some branches of bus and other transport haulage workers repeated threats that all workers would walk out if troops are employed.

On the other hand, numerous union spokesmen not yet involved in the strike said they would support the government's stand on the grounds that "law and order must be maintained."

At present, the unions are split, with only a minority holding out for a general strike.

The present outlook is that the Republicans will give the President everything he wants . . . provided he wants the same things they want.

ARRAIGNMENT OF INDICTED MEN SET FOR MONDAY

Nine men indicted by the Pickaway county grand jury will be arraigned at 9:30 a. m. Monday before Judge William D. Radcliff in common pleas court. This was announced Friday by Judge Radcliff.

One of the nine against whom indictments were returned Wednesday afternoon is Carl Adkins, 38, truck driver, Cleveland, charged with the forgery of an $11 check in Circleville on July 7, 1943. At his request Adkins was brought into court Friday morning and he asked that the court appoint a lawyer to defend him. Judge Radcliff appointed Harry Margolis, Ashville.

Industrial Experts Claim Nips Trying To Stop Plant Removals

TOKYO, Jan. 10—General MacArthur's industrial experts said today they are convinced Japanese industrialists are deliberately wasting electric power to discourage war reparations removal of power plants.

In a surprise inspection yesterday occupation experts discovered the Nippon Hassoden Tokyo plants were producing salt by electricity. Such use of electricity has been illegal since last Nov. 1 when MacArthur ordered strict controls over use of electric power.

MacArthur's experts said those controls have been applied by Japanese power companies against residential users and that the whole Japanese nation has been complaining of not enough power.

The controls were applied so that whole sections have been left without any electricity certain periods, either daily or weekly.

At the same time, the nation is using a total electrical power consumption only ten per cent less than peak war time consumption. This is despite the fact industrial power use is only ten per cent of what it was during the war.

Senate Subcommittee Report Against Portal Pay Due Next Wednesday

WASHINGTON, Jan. 10—A senate committee was directed today to begin action by next Wednesday on legislation to nullify labor's portal-to-portal pay suits as battle lines were drawn in congress on the issue of "the restrictive" measures.

Appointment of the senate judiciary subcommittee headed by Sen. Donnell (R) Mo., came shortly after Sen. Ball (R) Minn., announced he would introduce today a bill to discourage industrywide collective bargaining.

Sen. Wiley (R) Wis., chairman of the full judiciary committee, told newsmen he had directed the portal-to-portal subcommittee to "get underway and meet not later than Wednesday."

Wiley said he did not think hearings on the portal-to-portal bill he introduced would take more than "three or four days." A similar measure by Sen. Capehart (R) Ind., Wiley added, is to be transferred from the labor committee to Wiley's group for consideration at the same time.

The labor legislation moved ahead while leading senate Republicans were firing answering shots at a CIO blast against the majority party's pending labor bills.

Ball (R) Minn. co-author of the revised Case labor bill now ready for committee action, replied to key points in a 36-page CIO pamphlet sent to all members of congress. The lengthy analysis was titled, "the drive against labor."

In it, the CIO attacked the move to outlaw jurisdictional strikes by contending that none of the major strikes in 1946 were of that type. The CIO claimed that prohibition of jurisdictional strikes, approved by President Truman, is a proposal for "involuntary servitude."

Ball's reply was:

"As to major strikes, how about that Hollywood business?"

"Involuntary servitude nothing. You can't pass a law prohibiting workers from quitting their jobs. When a man is on strike, he is not quitting his job—he's still an employee."

Sen. Wherry (R) Neb., GOP whip, declared that it is "mandatory upon congress to make some adjustments in the Wagner act."

And Sen. Taft (R) Ohio, GOP policy chairman, told an audience in New York that the pending Ball-Taft-Smith bill may be expanded to include anti-closed shop or other provisions and be reported to the senate by March 1.

In his year-end report today, State Treasurer Don H. Ebright pointed out that every one of the state's 88 counties showed a sharp gain in sales and use tax revenues. The gains ranged from Summit's 30.6 per cent gain to Geauga's gain of 75.6 per cent.

SOLON INSISTS CASH TERMINAL PAY CHEAPER

WASHINGTON, Jan. 10—Rep. Rogers (D) Fla., today backed his bill for cash payment of veterans' terminal leave pay with the argument that immediate disbursement would save the government money.

Rogers was the first to present a cash payment amendment to the terminal leave bill of last session, which provided payment for unused leave time in non-negotiable government bonds. Other similar amendments have been offered, and Sen. Johnston (D) S. C. has dropped one in the senate hopper.

Types remaining on the ration list are certain bonded whiskies, straight, blends of straights, Canadian and imported Scotch and Irish whiskies.

Ration card holders will be permitted to purchase one unit (a fifth, a quart or two pints) of the rationed whiskies during the 55th week of 1947.

Ward's Reports, Inc., says this figure compares with 53,437 turned out during the short week ending January 4. Of this week's total output, 50,689 were passenger cars.

The industry plans to produce 404,000 cars and trucks in the United States and 20,250 in Canada in January.

"This raises the further question as to whether his budget in reality may not be out of balance."

"Present high employment levels call for little federal outlay for unemployment relief."

"Any economic dislocations during the fiscal 1948, however temporary, will throw his budget further out of balance."

Bridges asserted that without additional legislation returning capital funds of government corporations to the treasury, "expenditures in the president's 1948 budget would actually exceed income by approximately the same amount that his budget now contains."

Budget Called 'Cold Shock To Public'

WASHINGTON, Jan. 10—Sen. Bridges (R) N. H., chairman of the senate appropriations committee, today called President Truman's "$37,500,000 budget" a cold shock to the American tax-paying public.

Bridges' appropriations post makes him a key figure in the relations of the Republican-controlled congress and the president on "Proposed expenditures of $37,-

Record Total Sought For Veterans Benefits

WASHINGTON, Jan. 10—President Truman asked Congress to day for a record total of more than $9,143,000,000 to be spent for veterans' benefits during the next 18 months.

The President explained in his message that expenditures in the veterans' program largely account for the billion-dollar increase in the budget for fiscal 1947 over August estimates.

Mr. Truman observed:

"For example, many more veterans than had been expected decided to go to college or enroll for job training."

"We cannot regret this demand for education, but it illustrates the kind of uncertainty that cannot be eliminated in preparing our estimates."

The chief executive recommended veterans' appropriations for 1948 totaling $7,009,089,900. He said anticipated supplements in the 1947 veterans' program totaled $2,134,488,473.

PRESIDENT ASKS CONGRESS FOR 37.5 BILLIONS

$11,200,000,000 Requested For National Defense Expenditures

Mr. Truman again re-stated his opposition to any cuts in taxes, and asked that high wartime levies on luxury items be continued through the 1948 fiscal year. He also called upon the Republican-controlled congress to revise postal rates upwards to avoid a deficit of $352,000,000—the largest ever anticipated in the history of the post office department.

Could Cut Debt

If these two recommendations are carried out, the president said that spending would total $37,100,000,000, and income would rise to $38,900,000,000, leaving a surplus of $1,800,000,000 to be applied to the national debt.

The President drew up his budget on "functional" lines for the first time, rather than by departments and agencies. He listed four major categories which alone accounted for more than three-fourths of the contemplated government spending. They were:

1. Interest on the national debt and refunds under tax laws, $7,100,000,000; 2. national defense $11,200,000,000; 3. international affairs and finance $3,500,000,000; 4. veterans' service and benefits $7,300,000,000.

In commenting on these expenditures, which he said "practically determine the size of the total," the president said:

National defense: "though we expect the United Nations to move toward world security, any cut in our present estimate for 1948 would immediately weaken our international position. This large part of the budget, in my judgment, represents a proper balance between security and economy."

Must Aid Sufferers

International affairs and finance: "We must discharge our occupation responsibilities in Europe and the Far East. We must provide for war damage restoration in the Philippines and for the relief and resettlement of displaced persons in Europe. We must continue to give relief to some other countries which are most urgently in need . . . our international affairs budget is important for peace, security, and our own prosperity. To reduce it would delay the restoration of a peaceful and prosperous world."

Veterans affairs: "This country has provided generously for the successful return of veterans to civilian life and for the care of the disabled . . . unemployment payments should be smaller. Veterans' benefits under present law appear to be adequate."

Defense Expense Cut

It was stated that the national defense spending of $11,200,000,000, for the war and navy departments combined, represented a sharp reduction from the original spending requests for this category. The war department originally asked for $9,200,000,000, it was said, and the navy requested $6,400,000,000, indicating an original planned total of $15,600,000,000.

The budget reflected Mr. Truman's action in transferring the atomic energy development program out of the war department and placing it in the category of "natural resources."

More For Atom Research

The President proposed to spend $444,000,000 during the fiscal year "to bring the benefits of atomic research to industry and medicine and to enrich standards of well-being." This expenditure compares with $385,000,000 being spent during the present year and $430,000,000 expended in 1946.

In the field of foreign relief, the President proposed to spend $950,000 in 1948, plus an additional $300,000,000 he plans to ask for during the current fiscal year ending June 30, 1947.

Other programs and their proposed expenditures were: social welfare, health and security $1,654,000,000; housing and community facilities $539,000,000; education and general research $88,000,000; agriculture and agriculture resources $381,000,000; national resources $1,101,000,000; transportation and communication $1,830,000,000; finance, commerce and industry $428,000,000; labor $118,000,000; and general government $1,492,000,000.

Deficit Higher

In submitting his 1948 budget, the president also included a new revision of the budget for the current fiscal year which indicated a deficit of $2,300,000,000 compared with previous estimates of a $1,900,000,000.

The revised 1947 budget estimated receipts at $40,200,000,000 compared with previous estimates of $39,600,000,000; and expenditures of $42,500,000,000 as contrasted with $41,500,000,000.

In the field of legislative recommendations, the President asked congress to continue the Reconstruction Finance corporation beyond its present June 30 expiration date, and said he was prepared to recommend a new charter

TWO MOTORISTS POST BOND IN MAYOR'S COURT

Robert B. Gussman, 22, laborer, 223 Mingo street, arrested by police at 12:45 a.m. Friday on a reckless driving charge, was released under $20 bond for appearance at 8 p.m. Monday. Police said Gussman drove 42 miles an hour on Western avenue and that he drove through two stop signs.

Bruce W. McMenamy, 28, taxicab driver, 519 East Main street, arrested by police at 1:10 a.m. Friday on a charge of driving through a stop sign at Washington and Town streets, was released under $5 bond for appearance at 8 p.m. Monday before Mayor Gordon.

Police said Gussman drove 42 miles an hour on Western avenue and that he drove through two stop signs.

Rep. Clarence Brown (R) Ohio:

"The President's budget is an astounding document. While it seems unbelievable, the only reduction the President proposes in federal spending is at the expense of national defense, international affairs, and veteran services and benefits."

Rep. Cannon (D) Mo., former chairman, house appropriations committee:

"It's a kindly, sound and constructive message. I fail to see how a better program could be laid out under the difficult conditions that exist now. You can't do anything with the fixed charges, such as those on the public debt and veterans' benefits. The only place where they (the Republicans) could hope to make a saving would be in the appropriations for the Army and Navy. The situation is too serious to make unwise curtailments in the armed forces."

House speaker Martin (R) Mass., reserved comment until he has had time to familiarize himself with the document. Some Democratic leaders who declined to be quoted, expressed surprise that the President's budget provided for only a $2,000,000 reduction in the national debt.

TRIESTE PLAN EXPECTED TO BE APPROVED BY UN

Snags Slated To Be Ironed Out At Meeting Of Security Council

BY PIERRE J. HUSS
INS Staff Correspondent
LAKE SUCCESS, N. Y., Jan. 10.—Approval of the big four's internationalization of Trieste is forecast in United Nations circles today when the security council meets at 3 p. m. to consider a decision.

The permanent statute of the free territory as created after months of deliberation by the council of foreign ministers ran into a snag in the Tuesday meeting here because Australia charged that the security council cannot act as a ruling body over any territory.

A further cause for the subsequent three-day delay agreed on in acting on the big four request was that Belgium, Syria and Colombia as newcomers to the security council pleaded for more time to consult their governments.

Australian Chairman Norman J. O. Makin indicated at yesterday's security council session that extensive debate over Trieste was desirable, but other delegates seemed convinced that the statute could be speedily disposed of and make way for further discussion of the disarmament and atomic control issues.

The security council battled for three hours yesterday over procedure in discussing disarmament, finally adjourning with the United States and Soviet Russia deadlocked on the question of priority. Both the American and Russian delegations stood their ground in demanding first consideration for their rival resolutions.

Efforts on the part of the Australian, French and British representatives to break the impasse were of no avail, leaving it to the security council to adjourn after formally approving the general assembly's resolution on disarmament.

In the course of the afternoon, Soviet Delegate Andrei Y. Gromyko flung an accusation at United States acting delegate Herschel V. Johnson that his resolution demanding priority hearing for the atomic energy report was nothing other than an "either—or" ultimatum.

The Russian branded the resolution as contradicting the general assembly's resolution and said it was aimed at delaying consideration of the disarmament request made by Russia.

Gromyko concluded his attack with this parting shot:

"Delay in consideration of the concrete questions concerning general regulation and reduction of armaments and armed forces on account of different kinds of plausible excuses cannot promote the successful beginning of the realization of this important decision, which would play a historical role in building up a stable peace and in the establishment of friendly relations among nations."

Johnson stressed that the United States has always led the field in peace settlements and arms regulation. He rapped Gromyko's charges that America was delaying progress, stating:

"If agreement is reached on atomic energy control and an adequate system of safeguards and controls is set up and enforced, the other phases of disarmament will become a minor problem."

New Legion Commander Adopts Kilroy As Mascot

BY NORMAN AGATHON
INS Staff Correspondent

UNIONTOWN, Penna.—Who is this guy Kilroy?

American Legion National Commander Griffith said he didn't know, but he's sure he's met him somewhere.

Mrs. Norton M. Pearl, new National Commander of the Legion's woman's auxiliary, said she's heard of him and would like to meet his wife, that is — if he has one.

The average G.I. says he's never met the gent—and better than that he doesn't care because Kilroy is getting in his hair.

Anyway the distinguished character whose name has been inscribed on many a distinguished place (some not so distinguishable) has carved a name for himself—the same as Elmer did in bygone legion conventions.

Commander Griffith, at a recent homecoming in his native Uniontown, said Kilroy was with him at the recent American Legion convention, adding:

"Everywhere I turned there was Kilroy. He haunted me. He kept me awake nights. He was at the breakfast table with me. He was with me when I took a bath, but he helped elect me national commander."

Although Griffith could give no immediate answer on how this character came into being, he said Kilroy without a doubt will guide him during his administration as an official adviser.

At the Uniontown ceremonies, Griffith thought he left Kilroy in charge of the Legion's headquarters—but he managed to sneak away and attended the ceremonies.

Kilroy shook hands with Pennsylvania's Gov. Martin and some of Washington's high Army brass—three or four major generals and a lowly Brigadier General.

Griffith hazarded a guess that Kilroy probably was born in a fox hole on the world's battle fronts. He said he had heard that the mythical character was the creation of some G.I.'s who used the name to get out of menial Army tasks—a goldbrick to the G.I.'s.

He said he hadn't talked to any Marine about it adding:

"They are a boastful lot. They'll probably claim the distinction of creating Kilroy."

"Sailors," Griffith said, "thus far haven't claimed Kilroy yet, but I expect we're any minute."

Anyway the new National Commander said Kilroy has been adopted as his unofficial mascot.

COLUMBUS.—You can add nursery tree stocks to your growing list of post-war shortages.

F. W. Dean, Ohio State University extension forester, says Ohio farmers who planned to make forest plantings won't be able to get the trees they need next Spring.

BUC OFFERS AID ON WAGE REPORT

Special Representative To Be Here January 29 To Help Employers

Ohio Bureau of Unemployment Compensation, it was announced Friday, will send a representative to Circleville to aid employers in the preparation of wage reports.

Employers in Circleville and throughout Pickaway county, it was stated, may telephone the Ohio State Employment office, Circleville, phone 197, and arrange an appointment with B. H. Wolf, payroll auditor for the BUC. He will be at the Circleville office Wednesday, Jan. 29, by appointment only.

Employers subject to the Ohio unemployment compensation law are, for the first time, during January, using a new, simplified "Quarterly Wage Report" form in submitting their report of employees' earnings for the fourth quarter of 1946 to the Ohio Bureau of Unemployment Compensation.

This new form, known as the BUC 475X, is designed to reduce the number of forms which each employer must prepare following the end of each quarter. It permits the listing of all covered workers in an arrangement similar to that appearing on Federal Social Security report forms. Previously, employers were required to submit individual wage report slips for each worker.

Although detailed instruction sheets have been distributed to all covered employers in the state, in the event any employer desires any additional information or assistance in preparing his report, which must be sent to the Bureau by January 31, 1947, he should call the nearest local office of the Bureau in his community and arrange an appointment with a payroll auditor.

CONSERVATION EDUCATION IS ROTARY SUBJECT

Conservation of the nation's natural resources was stressed as the best method of preserving the American high standard of living in an address delivered by R. H. Eckelberry to members of the Circleville Rotary club, Thursday, following a noon luncheon at the Pickaway Arms.

"Conservation Education" was the subject of the talk. Eckelberry is identified with the bureau of educational research at Ohio State University.

He divided the wise use of natural resources into five classifications, namely mineral, water, soil, plant and animal.

"Everything we have depends upon our natural resources," Eckelberry declared. "This country today has the highest standard of living ever known—but it will decline if we are not careful. We must not be tied down by government regulations."

'REPORT FROM WORLD' HEARD AT CLEVELAND

World Leaders Scheduled At Forum; Dr. Koo, Romulo Air Their Views

BY ADOLPH PONIKVAR
INS Staff Correspondent

CLEVELAND, Jan. 10—Leading foreign and domestic statesmen continued today with a "report from the world" as Cleveland held the spot light of international attention.

Two forums of the council on world affairs were scheduled today, one in the afternoon and one tonight—the first concerning itself with Latin-America, and the second on western Europe. Last night, a packed music-hall audience of more than 3,000 heard Henry R. Luce, editor of "Time" magazine—co-sponsor of the world institute—open the first forum discussion on the Far East and the Pacific.

Italian Premier Alcide De Gasperi and Maurice Schumann, president of France's Popular Republican movement, were to be the principal speakers at tonight's session.

They will be joined on the rostrum by E. N. Van Kleefens, former Netherlands delegate to the UN security council, and Robin J. Cruikshank, director of London's "Star" and "News-Chronicle," in declaring what their countries expect from the United States.

Gen. Omar N. Bradley, veterans' administrator, will respond with his views on what the United States is going to do about these expectations.

The Latin-American forum will feature addresses by Edouardo R. Larreta, foreign minister of Uruguay; Oswaldo Aranha, former Brazilian minister of foreign affairs; Ezequiel Padilla, former Mexican foreign minister; Victoria Orcamp, Argentinian author, and Sumner Welles, former U. S. undersecretary of state.

Last night's audience heard Dr. Wellington Koo, Chinese ambassador to the United States, charge that "Northeastern Asia has been the cockpit of international rivalry for more than half a century."

Brig. Gen. Carlos P. Romulo, Philippine delegate to the UN paid tribute to the "moral superiority and ideals" of the United States but warned that prestige of America in Asia was never more in need of buttressing than now.

"America must endeavor by every means to maintain the high level of prestige reached when independence was granted the Philippines," Romulo asserted.

Secretary of the Navy James Forrestal said all nations should cooperate for world peace but added:

"We must retain our military strength and be ready and able to use it if the peace of the world is threatened. Both for our own sake and for the benefit of the world we can ever again run the risk of the delusion that peace is to be got by being naked to attack."

CLAY TO BERLIN, CLARK TO U. S.

More Fall Pigs Farrowed Than Predicted; Farmers See Bright Future

COLUMBUS, O., Jan. 10—Farmers decided in June, 1946, to make a big cut in the Fall pig crop; but a very promising corn crop and probably an idea that price controls on livestock would be removed were encouraging enough so the reduction in the Fall pig crop was not as large as expected.

Rural economists at Ohio State University say the final figure on the U. S. Fall pig crop places the number of litters at 4,725,000, which was 13 per cent below the 1945 Fall farrowing but was considerably above the reported intentions of cutting the crop by 20 per cent. Fall litters in the corn belt were cut 16 per cent.

Total pigs produced in 1946 are estimated at 83,201,000 head. That total is more than 3,000,000 head less than the 1945 U. S. pig crop. The economists point out that Ohio farmers did not follow the national trend in 1946, as the year's pig crop in the Buckeye state was 3 per cent larger than the 1945 crop.

At the beginning of 1947, U. S. farmers are more optimistic about future hog business than are those in Ohio. Farmers throughout the nation report intentions of making the 1947 Spring pig crop 6 per cent larger than in 1946, but Ohio farmers plan to raise only 4 per cent more Spring pigs in 1947.

Economists say differences in local supplies of corn probably cause the differences in plans for pork production between Ohio and the nation as a whole. Farmers in sections which have abundant corn supplies that must be fed at home or shipped long distances to market have a better pork-feed ratio than Ohio farmers have.

'REPORT FROM WORLD' HEARD AT CLEVELAND

World Leaders Scheduled At Forum; Dr. Koo, Romulo Air Their Views

BY ADOLPH PONIKVAR
INS Staff Correspondent

CLEVELAND, Jan. 10—Leading foreign and domestic statesmen continued today with a "report from the world" as Cleveland held the spot light of international attention.

Two forums of the council on world affairs were scheduled today, one in the afternoon and one tonight—the first concerning itself with Latin-America, and the second on western Europe. Last night, a packed music-hall audience of more than 3,000 heard Henry R. Luce, editor of "Time" magazine—co-sponsor of the world institute—open the first forum discussion on the Far East and the Pacific.

Italian Premier Alcide De Gasperi and Maurice Schumann, president of France's Popular Republican movement, were to be the principal speakers at tonight's session.

They will be joined on the rostrum by E. N. Van Kleefens, former Netherlands delegate to the UN security council, and Robin J. Cruikshank, director of London's "Star" and "News-Chronicle," in declaring what their countries expect from the United States.

Gen. Omar N. Bradley, veterans' administrator, will respond with his views on what the United States is going to do about these expectations.

The Latin-American forum will feature addresses by Edouardo R. Larreta, foreign minister of Uruguay; Oswaldo Aranha, former Brazilian minister of foreign affairs; Ezequiel Padilla, former Mexican foreign minister; Victoria Camp, Argentinian author, and Sumner Welles, former U.S. under-secretary of state.

Last night's audience heard Dr. Wellington Koo, Chinese ambassador to the United States, charge that "Northeastern Asia has been the cockpit of international rivalry for more than half a century."

Brig. Gen. Carlos P. Romulo, Philippine delegate to the UN paid tribute to the "moral superiority and ideals" of the United States but warned that prestige of America in Asia was never more in need of buttressing than now.

"America must endeavor by every means to maintain the high level of prestige reached when independence was granted the Philippines," Romulo asserted.

Secretary of the Navy James Forrestal said all nations should cooperate for world peace but added:

"We must retain our military strength and be ready and able to use it if the peace of the world is threatened. Both for our own sake and for the benefit of the world we can ever again run the risk of the delusion that peace is to be got by being naked to attack."

PORK SUPPLY IS ABOVE ESTIMATE

More Fall Pigs Farrowed Than Predicted; Farmers See Bright Future

COLUMBUS, O., Jan. 10—Farmers decided in June, 1946, to make a big cut in the Fall pig crop; but a very promising corn crop and probably an idea that price controls on livestock would be removed were encouraging enough so the reduction in the Fall pig crop was not as large as expected.

Rural economists at Ohio State University say the final figure on the U. S. Fall pig crop places the number of litters at 4,725,000, which was 13 per cent below the 1945 Fall farrowings but was considerably above the reported intentions of cutting the crop by 20 per cent. Fall litters in the corn belt were cut 16 per cent.

Total pigs produced in 1946 are estimated at 83,201,000 head. That total is more than 3,000,000 head less than the 1945 U. S. pig crop. The economists point out that Ohio farmers did not follow the national trend in 1946, as the year's pig crop in the Buckeye state was 3 per cent larger than the 1945 crop.

At the beginning of 1947, U. S. farmers are more optimistic about future hog business than are those in Ohio. Farmers throughout the nation report intentions of making the 1947 Spring pig crop 6 per cent larger than in 1946, but Ohio farmers plan to raise only 4 per cent more Spring pigs in 1947.

Economists say differences in local supplies of corn probably cause the differences in plans for pork production between Ohio and the nation as a whole. Farmers in sections which have abundant corn supplies that must be fed at home or shipped long distances to market have a better pork-feed ratio than Ohio farmers have.

ANTI-SALOONERS TO SUBMIT FIVE NEW PROPOSALS

COLUMBUS, O., Jan. 10—The Ohio Anti-Saloon League revealed today it planned to submit five, and possibly six, proposed bills to the state legislature.

Attorney Robert W. Newton, Columbus, legislative representative, said the proposals would seek to:

1. Prohibit sales in the vicinity of any public school or church;
2. Give municipalities the right to impose earlier closing hours for taverns;

3. Prohibit parents and guardians from giving intoxicants to minors;
4. Allow countywide, rather than township, local option elections;

5. Prohibit sale of "hard liquor" outside municipalities, and
6. Prohibit sale of intoxicants where food is sold. (This provision would represent an exact reversal of the present law requiring all permit holders to have a restaurant license as well.)

GERMANS IN AMERICA

FIRST hand knowledge of America would help right German thought, according to George N. Shuler, president of Hunter College, who was in post-war Germany as chairman of the War Department's Historical Commission. Germans, still twisted in mind and emotion by the disease of Nazism, need re-education that will develop new leaders. These must be men able to use power for social good rather than for military or political strength as in the Hitler regime.

Promising youth should be trained in America for such roles through first hand acquaintance with this country's universities, newspapers, churches and charitable institutions, thinks President Shuler.

Such visits would foster the liberal tradition that survives in the Reich, and give a real glimpse into the actual workings of democratic principles. It is as yet impossible for them to get such a light on democracy from the present four-zone chaotic government of their country by its conquerors.

Such an idea seems to have been connected with the visit to this country of Pastor Martin Niemoller, the first German to be admitted since the war. While Niemoller's anti-Nazi record is not without blemishes, his stay in this country will be justified if on his return he can kindle some desire for a re-vitalized democratic aim in his country. More of his countrymen should be brought over here, and young men, especially, need the experience of American education.

MORE FOOD

ACCORDING to the annual report of the Department of Agriculture, people all over the world will eat better during the coming year than they have done for some time.

Rice, the staple diet of a large percentage of the world's population, shows a gain of 6,000,000 bushels over last year's figure, though it is still short of the pre-war amount. Wheat and other bread grains have reached a new high level of production, and meat, dairy products, and sugar are also rising in quantity.

Perhaps, before long, American families may sit down at their bountifully spread tables without a twinge of conscience on behalf of starving millions elsewhere.

Americans are such natural worriers that maybe it's a good thing they always have the national debt to worry about.

NEWS BEHIND THE NEWS

By PAUL MALLON

WASHINGTON, Jan. 10—A somewhat enigmatic revelation of Russia's intent toward the world has been presented by her atomic position.

Although no authority here is speaking frankly or fully, you may see the results across the front pages—Mr. Baruch resigns, urges more bombs, a general demands industry build underground factories in a defense program, the administration wants military training again, etc.

Now we have the bomb. No other nation presumably has it. (Stalin said Russia does not). Resigning, Mr. Baruch says we should keep on making the weapon. Yet Russia has sternly taken the stand that security councilors in UN be permitted to veto punishment of offenders to world atomic tranquility. This hardly makes clear sense. In any natural reasoning, you would expect Russia would be eager to punish offenders, the only known possible offender being the United States. In straight common sense you would think Russia would gleefully back any move to restrict or obstruct manufacture of the bomb by a capitalistic nation.

By what reasoning then could she possibly have come to vote against the generous Baruch plan for an international agreement, inspection (she has agreed to this) and punishment of violations?

The only conclusive answer in logic is unbelievable. Could she expect to become a violator, or knows someone who will? Why else would she want to protect violators? Why else would she insist upon right of veto against punishment?

Obviously Russia does not expect us to use the bomb or contemplate war by us. For, if she did, she would be insisting upon a position opposite the one she maintains today—namely that we, as members of the security council, be not permitted to veto punishment of ourselves by the UN. If Russia had any genuine fear, that would be her position. But only if she had the bomb, or contemplated getting it and using it for purposes of world revolution, could she convincingly justify the obstructive position to peace she has taken.

This simple, reasoned analysis of what may lie beyond current UN atomic events is getting around high spots here. Frankly our officials do not know. The wonder. The prospect is that Baruch's resignation will force our leadership into the hands of Chairman Austin of our UN delegation, a man less sensitive to the sharper points of international diplomacy than Baruch. In the ordinary course, the Baruch program will be argued before the security council for weeks and months with nothing being done. In some ways, by this, Russia appears to have won an advantage, because Austin (the newspapers publicly proclaim this) is more apt to conciliate and appease the Russians.

Most authorities believe the whole Baruch commission quit because it has drawn the lines upon which the program could be worked out and sees ahead only a typical, interminable argument before the security council which Austin is the logical man to conduct because of his position.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 10—Here we go again on another epidemic of "general so-and-so for president in 1948"—and once again the professional politicians actually are trembling a bit in their party boots.

MacArthur, Patton, Eisenhower, Marshall, Clark... so it has gone the last couple of years, and now the naming of General Marshall as secretary of state has started the rumors flying over again.

Of course, in his present position as technical vice-president, Marshall automatically would enter the White House should anything happen to President Truman.

But as for some general being elected president, personally this correspondent can't possibly figure out who would do the electing.

Non-veterans? Not so you could notice it!

Veterans? Are you kidding, chum?

After a year's poll-taking—on a strictly personal basis—across the country, I'm convinced that absolutely nothing but a lesser-of-two-evils situation could possibly elect a general to the nation's No. 1 job in '48.

Furthermore, that belief is strongly backed by an avalanche of letters from readers, both veterans and non-veteran.

So where do all these pundits, politicians and political prophets who predict otherwise get their point of view? It beats the heck outta me, lieutenant:

"They'd be too anxious to try out that atomic bomb!"

For instance: Just since Marshall's appointment was made public, I have questioned approximately 200 local citizens on the subject of a general for president in '48.

They included barbers, taxi-drivers, congressmen, buck privates, ex-G.I.'s, ex-officers, insurance salesmen, linotype men, bartenders, cashiers and two brigadier generals.

All but about 20 of them not only said they personally would jump their party to vote against a general, but also predicted that most of their friends and neighbors would do the same.

The dissenting twenty included two of the congressmen, one of the generals (who said he would vote for a fellow-general, but doubted that he could be elected), one sad-faced soldier who said he would just be getting even with his draft board and one dead-panned barber who said the country was just dumb enough to do a trick like that...

"God save the United States from the rule of the military mind or the military system..."

And that's only one of many such letters.

Otherwise, quite seriously speaking, the reaction was much the same as I found it all across the country. Non-veteran civilians seem to mistrust the idea of professional soldiers in high elective and executive positions—particularly in this time. One summed it up thusly:

"They'd be too anxious to try out that atomic bomb!"

Veterans—officer and G.I. alike—agreed almost to a man that general's stars would be the political kiss of death on any potential candidate's shoulders, as far as the soldier vote was concerned.

Typical of the latter's reaction was a letter recently received from a Jonesville, Ark., lawyer. A veteran of three years' Army service in World War II, he said in part:

"We don't want a general for president! This is no disrespect for Eisenhower (or MacArthur or the rest) for whom I have the highest esteem and respect... but I shudder at the thought of a general running the country...

"I'm no pacifist, and I'm for the military and believe in adequate support for them, and training and preparedness for our people... but let's keep a sense of proportion...

"God save the United States from the rule of the military mind or the military system..."

And that's only one of many such letters.

Otherwise, quite seriously speaking, the reaction was much the same as I found it all across the country. Non-veteran civilians seem to mistrust the idea of professional soldiers in high elective and executive positions—par-

Penicillin Found Effective Against Minor Infections

By HERMAN N. BUNDESEN, M.D.

PENICILLIN is truly a wonder drug. Life-saving when used against many serious infections, it is also an effective weapon against other ailments which, though comparatively minor, still cause much trouble and discomfort. Prominent among such disorders are those affecting the eye, ear and nose.

For instance, it is not unusual for the tear glands of the eye to become infected. In the past, treatment usually consisted of cutting open the tear sac and allowing infected material to drain out. Now, according to Dr. Cecil C. Jones of Des Moines, Iowa, the infection can very often be cleared up without incision, merely by washing out the tear sac with a penicillin solution.

Acute Infections

Penicillin also has been found helpful in acute infections of the sinus. The treatment employed by Dr. Jones is first to shrink the lining membranes of the nose and then to put the penicillin solution directly into the sinus. Chronic sinus infections also have been benefited in the same way.

Chronic running ear may also be helped when penicillin solution is put into the ear at three-hour intervals. The solution may be kept in by using an ear plug coated with petroleum. Physicians nowadays are using penicillin to the fullest extent in the handling of these many nose, eye and ear infections.

Another eye infection which can be helped by penicillin is conjunctivitis or inflammation of the lining membrane. However, Dr. Jones believes that the best form of using the penicillin in such cases is as an ointment. This is put into the eye every four hours while the person is awake. He has found it more effective than penicillin solution, an ointment of sulfathiazole or other antisepsics. The ointment of penicillin remains in contact with the tissues for a longer time and it does not produce irritation as often as do the penicillin eye drops.

Acute infections seem to clear up more promptly than do the prolonged ones.

A more serious eye condition is the development of an ulcer or sore on the cornea which is the front part of the eyeball. This is treated by injecting a solution of the penicillin twice a day under the lining membrane of the eyeball.

This procedure is somewhat painful so that the eye must first be anesthetized, that is, the sensation in it deadened. The sulfonamide preparations in some instances of corneal ulcer may seem to interfere with the healing process. This is not true of the penicillin solution.

If South had reflected, he would have realized that the A is the stock lead from the A-K unguard-ed as well as when not holding the K. He could have guarded against this by ruffing the heart

Q on the second heart trick, returning to dummy with the diamond K, then leading hearts.

That method would have protected him against either heart holding.

Penicillin Found Effective Against Minor Infections

By HERMAN N. BUNDESEN, M.D.

PENICILLIN is truly a wonder drug. Life-saving when used against many serious infections, it is also an effective weapon against other ailments which, though comparatively minor, still cause much trouble and discomfort. Prominent among such disorders are those affecting the eye, ear and nose.

For instance, it is not unusual for the tear glands of the eye to become infected. In the past, treatment usually consisted in cutting open the tear sac and allowing infected material to drain out. Now, according to Dr. Cecil C. Jones of Des Moines, Iowa, the infection can very often be cleared up without incision, merely by washing out the tear sac with a penicillin solution.

Another eye infection which can be helped by penicillin is conjunctivitis or inflammation of the lining membrane. However, Dr. Jones believes that the best form of using the penicillin in such cases is as an ointment. This is put into the eye every four hours while the person is awake. He has found it more effective than a penicillin solution, an ointment of sulfathiazole or other antiseptics. The ointment of penicillin remains in contact with the tissues for a longer time and it does not produce irritation as often as the penicillin eye drops.

Acute infections seem to clear up more promptly than do the prolonged ones.

A more serious eye condition is the development of an ulcer or sore on the cornea which is the front part of the eyeball. This is treated by injecting a solution of the penicillin twice a day under the lining membrane of the eyeball.

This procedure is somewhat painful so that the eye must first be anesthetized, that is, the sensation in it deadened. The sulfonamide preparations in some instances of corneal ulcer may seem to interfere with the healing process. This is not true of the penicillin solution.

Acute Infections

Penicillin also has been found helpful in acute infections of the nasal sinuses. The treatment employed by Dr. Jones is first to shrink the lining membranes of the nose and then to put the penicillin solution directly into the sinuses. Chronic sinus infections also have been benefited in the same way.

Chronic running ear may also be helped when penicillin solution is put into the ear at three-hour intervals. The solution may be kept in by using an ear plug coated with petroleum. Physicians nowadays are using penicillin to the fullest extent in the handling of these many nose, eye and ear infections.

BARCLAY ON BRIDGE

"The Authority on Authorities"

THINK OF ALL ANGLES NOBODY CAN think of everything—that is, if there really is such a thing as what people call "everything." But the best bridge players try to think of all the angles that bear importantly on the existing situation. Take the matter of your opponent's opening lead, when you are the declarer. Right offhand, it may seem to be from a certain kind of holding in its suit. But think a bit. Possibly the leader has a certain other holding, from which that lead could be quite regular. In that event, maybe you can protect yourself against both possibilities, if you will just weigh the means.

He could have guarded against this by ruffing the heart Q on the second heart trick, returning to dummy with the diamond K, then leading hearts. That method would have protected him against either heart holding.

Income Tax Paying Time Faced By Pickaway County Residents

JANUARY 15 IS DEADLINE FOR MANY CITIZENS

Farmers And Business Men Must File Returns By Next Wednesday

Next Wednesday, Jan. 15, is the deadline for the filing of income tax returns by Circleville business and professional men and by Pickaway county farmers.

Two collectors from the Columbus office of the U. S. Internal Revenue Bureau left Circleville Thursday after spending four days at the postoffice to assist taxpayers in the preparation of returns.

Postmaster A. Hulse Hayes said Friday that while he was not certain he believed the collectors will again visit Circleville before March 15, which is the deadline for the filing of income tax returns by all persons subject to tax withholding from their wage checks.

Under the federal regulations farmers are required to do one of two things on or before Jan. 15. They may file an estimated tax return for 1946 and pay two-thirds of the tax, then file a final return by March 15 paying the balance at that time, or they may file and complete the final return by Jan. 15.

Also, by Jan. 15, business and professional men and all other persons not subject to the wage withholding tax, who either over-estimated or under-estimated their 1946 income on previous declarations (or had substantial changes in income exemptions) must either file amended declarations or file final returns.

All other citizens or U. S. residents who had $500 or more gross income in 1946, including those persons subject to tax-withholding from their pay checks, must file returns on or before March 15.

Those subject to the withholding tax must, under federal regulations, have their withholding statement—Form W-2, with them when they file their return.

The Internal Revenue Bureau will have good news for some wage earners when they file their March 15 return. Some workers—especially World War II veterans who have been employed for only part of the year—will actually have tax refunds coming to them unless they had substantial income other than their wages.

(Continued from Page Six) tion on the council. Behind these convictions is the feeling that a sincere or early agreement is not in prospect. For an example of the confusion, Russia agreed not to veto inspections of atomic manufacturing, yet one reason offered for her insistence upon vetoing any punishment is that she does not want to let any international commission see what she is doing at home—thus no one knows how effective could be the agreement for inspection.

Yet many an official here thinks Russia will change her mind suddenly again now on this punishment feature. Certain prognosticators around the state department are privately predicting Stalin will order his diplomats to change around to the other side of the question and permit an agreement to go through the security council.

Actually interest here is far from intense. Authorities say: let the question dangle. Hardly anyone has a doubt that the United States should go ahead and take care of its own problem in the matter, regardless of what position the Russians take. The military, for example, seems to be awake to what might be demanded of it suddenly even if an agreement is made. The diplomats have a feeling Russia might take the other side of any question no matter what position they advance. Perhaps even a plane deal with certain Latin American countries will be announced soon.

The only tense suggestion I hear mentioned is in some Republican quarters where a vague demand can be heard for strengthening the Republican representation in UN. After all Austin was the choice of Mr. Truman. Some Republicans think the Republicans might do well to make their own choice—hereafter at least in UN matters, especially in view of some joint responsibility for foreign policy which has been assigned to them by the electorate through control of both houses of congress. I have heard no particular opposition to Austin personally, merely expression of a latent desire of some Republicans to assert the party interest more directly in UN leadership.
